Introduction

This Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy defines the responsibilities of employees within Egiss to ensure guidance regarding bribery and conflicts of interests. The purpose is to give directions to all staff to protect Egiss from the consequences of malpractice. Egiss takes pride in being a trustworthy partner for our customers and vendors. Our value "Personal responsibility" implies that all employees are obliged to show ethical and morally good behaviour – also when it comes to Anti Bribery and Corruption.

General principles

Egiss respects and complies to UN Global Compact Article 10: Businesses should work against corruption in all its forms, including extortion and bribery.

The definition of corruption and bribery includes but is not limited to:

- Transfer of personal or financial benefits (e.g., loan, fee, remuneration, gifts)
- Delivery of products or services
- Kickbacks
- Payment of travel and accommodation expenses, disproportionate entertainment expenses
- Charitable/political donations
- Facilitation payments

Introduction

papers (e.g. Visas); providing police protection; mail pick-up and delivery; or phone services; and actions of a similar nature.

Gifts

Anything of value, including extraordinary discounts, loans, cash, favourable terms on any product or service, services, prizes, transportation, use of another company's vehicles or vacation facilities, stocks or other securities, participation in stock offerings, tickets to shows or sporting events and gift certificates These are just some of the potentially endless examples

Undue

Something that is not earned or warranted in the ordinary course of one's duties, or that is excessively lavish under the circumstances..

Applicable rules

Applicable rules

We will uphold all laws relevant to countering bribery and corruption in all the countries in which we operate.

We will act according to the provisions provided in the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the U.K. Bribery Act 2010 even in jurisdictions where these laws do not apply.

Bribery or normal business procedure

It is customary and accepted practice in many business relationships to offer and receive gifts and entertain business partners. However, it is illegal to bribe a business partner or Public Official.

- A bribe can take many forms: The giving of anything of value – whether it is honoraria, a substantial gift, lavish entertainment, cash, or in-kind services – may constitute a bribe if given knowingly for the purpose of influencing the recipient's behaviour to gain a business advantage.
- The giving of something of value becomes wrong and illegal when the gift, money, etc. attempts to persuade the business partner or Public official to act or refrain from acting in accordance with his or her job function – or in a way which provides improper benefits to the person or company which offers the bribe.

- Valuable gifts offered to promote or create a relation to a business partner or public official are considered a bribe - even if they are offered in good faith.
- A bribe is wrong and illegal whether given directly, or indirectly. Indirect bribes include payments that are made through third parties, working on behalf of the Egiss.
- Always report to your nearest superior or use Egiss' Whistleblower System if you suspect that an employee, agent, or distributor has engaged in bribery, whether directly or indirectly.

Gifts and entertainments

Relationships with suppliers and customers must be based entirely on sound business decisions and fair dealing. Offering and receiving modest gift and inviting business partners to restaurants and equally accepting such invitations may support the good relationship and thereby business, but gifts and entertainment can create conflict of interest.

The test to be applied is whether in all the circumstances the gift or hospitality is reasonable and justifiable, and the intention behind the gift should always be considered. In general the limit is up to a maximum of 100€. Everything above should be approved by Egiss' Compliance Officer.

Applicable rules

Offering

- An Egiss employee may never offer or provide a gift, entertainment or anything of value if it is:
 - Illegal
 - Known to be in violation of the rules of the recipient's organization.
 - Cash, or cash equivalent.
 - Unsavoury, sexually oriented, or otherwise violates Egiss corporate values.
 - Provided in return for something the recipients have promised, give or do, or as part of an agreement to do anything in return for the gift or entertainment.
- A gift may be acceptable, provided:
 - It is given in Egiss' name, not in your name,
 - it is appropriate in the circumstances,
 - it is of an appropriate type and value and given at an appropriate time, and
 - it is given openly, not secretly.
 - Gifts should not be offered to government officials or representatives, or politicians or political parties, without the prior approval of Egiss' Compliance Officer.

Receiving

- It is not allowed to accept gifts and entertainment of a considerable size or extravagant entertainment from suppliers as this may be or may be seen as an attempt to influence the Egiss employees' business decisions. Such gifts should be politely returned, and invitations respectfully declined.
- Certain types of gifts and entertainment should never be received, because they are either wrong in fact or in appearance. An Egiss employee may never:
 - Accept any gift or entertainment that would be illegal or result in any violation of law
 - Accept any gift of cash or cash equivalent (such as gift certificates, loans, stock, stock options), or
 - Accept or request anything if the Egiss employee receives it in return for something the employee has promised, gives or does, or as a part of an agreement to do anything in return for the gift or entertainment.

Applicable rules

- It is not acceptable for you (or someone on your behalf) to:
 - accept payment from a third party that you know or suspect is offered with the expectation that it will obtain a business advantage for them;
 - accept a gift or hospitality from a third party if you know or suspect that it is offered or provided with an expectation that a business advantage will be provided by us in return; threaten or retaliate against another worker who has refused to commit a bribery offence
- or who has raised concerns under this policy;
- engage in any activity that might lead to a breach of this policy.

Books and records

Whenever a gift or entertainment is provided to a business partner, this must always be recorded in the books. The recorded entry must expressly state the nature and purpose of the expenditure, and records must be preserved. Reporting is always done to the Group CFO, who also keeps the books.

General points of attention

Duty to report gifts and entertainment

Gifts are considered as gifts to Egiss, not the individual, except gifts received at special occasions like jubilees etc.

Gifts and entertainment with a value more than 100€ received from a supplier or business partner must always be disclosed to the Compliance Officer, who also shall be involved should you be in doubt whether to receive it or not.

Sales incentives and “kick-backs” - marketing contributions, “street money” and bonuses

It is customary to support sales by various initiatives where a manufacturer or distributor rewards or promises a bonus when certain criteria are met.

Bonus-agreements or the like are as a starting point legal - but may be considered a bribe (“kickback”) if the agreement is meant to disqualify a competitor or meant to manipulate specs or conditions in your favour.

Bonus agreements should always be offered or accepted in the open and only after written consent from the Group CFO.

Conflict of interest

A conflict of interest may arise for any employee. It is important to protect both Egiss and all employees against the appearance or suspicion that any action has been influenced by irrelevant personal considerations.

A conflict of interest always disqualifies the employee from acting on behalf of Egiss. If an employee is in such a situation – whether actual or apparent – it should be reported to the nearest superior, who is responsible for handling the matter without involving the person who has a conflict of interest.

The list of potential conflict of interests includes, but is not limited to, issues such as:

- Contracts with a company controlled by the employee.
- Decisions that will affect the employee’s financial circumstances or those of a close relative, e.g. regarding business with a company, in which the employee has a financial stake.
- Decisions that will otherwise affect the interests of an employee’s close relatives.
- Loans or other benefits to the employee.
- Employment of the employee’s close relatives.

General points of attention

In general, a close relative of an employee should not have any business dealings with that employee, with anyone working in the employee's department, or with anyone who reports to the employee. Exceptions to this must be approved by the CHRO.

Facilitation payments are prohibited

In some countries Facilitation Payments may be permissible according to local law and tradition. However, such payments are not allowed according to this policy.

Potential risk scenarios – “red flags”

The following is a list of possible red flags that may arise during your employment at Egiss and which may raise concerns under various anti-bribery and anti-corruption laws. The list is not intended to be exhaustive and is for illustrative purposes only.

If you encounter any of these red flags while working for us, you must report them promptly to the nearest manager, Compliance Officer or Egiss' Whistleblower System.

- You become aware that a third party engages in, or has been accused of engaging in, improper business practices.

- You learn that a third party has a reputation for paying bribes, or requiring that bribes are paid to them, or has a reputation for having a “special relationship” with foreign government officials.
- A third party insists on receiving a commission or fee payment before committing to sign up to a contract with us or carrying out a government function or process for us.
- A third-party requests payment in cash and/or refuses to sign a formal commission or fee agreement, or to provide an invoice or receipt for a payment made.
- A third party requests that payment is made to a country or geographic location different from where the third party resides or conducts business.
- A third party requests an unexpected additional fee or commission to “facilitate” a service.
- A third party demands lavish entertainment or gifts before commencing or continuing contractual negotiations or provision of services.
- A third party requests that a payment is made to “overlook” potential legal violations.
- A third party requests that you provide employment or some other advantage to a friend or relative.
- You receive an invoice from a third party that appears to be non-standard or customized.

General points of attention

- A third party insists on the use of side letters or refuses to put terms agreed in writing.
- You notice that we have been invoiced for a commission or fee payment that appears large given the service stated to have been provided.
- A third party requests or requires the use of an agent, intermediary, consultant, distributor or supplier that is not typically used by or known to us.
- You are offered an unusually generous gift or offered lavish hospitality by a third party.

Trainings

All new hires will get the policy as an attachment to their employment contract and are asked to sign it. As part of the onboarding process all new employees will participate at a training focusing on the practical implications of the policy.

All employees regardless of seniority are invited for a mandatory yearly training and quiz. A minimum of 90% of the answers are to be correct, and if below 90% follow-up sessions will be scheduled. The training will be scheduled in Q4.

Do not hesitate to contact your nearest manager, the CHRO or use Egiss' Whistleblower system in these or similar situations.

Procedure for adoption and amendments

This policy, and any amendments to it, must be adopted by the Board of Directors of Egiss Group.

Our Policy

It is the policy of Egiss to prohibit and prevent money laundering and any activity that facilitates money laundering or the funding of terrorist or criminal activities by complying with all applicable requirements under the Anti-Money laundering Act (AML) and its implementing regulations.

Enhanced Due Diligence - for new accounts

Know Your Customer (KYC)

We properly identify new customers when their account is opened. Accordingly, the minimum identification requirements for opening a new account are listed below. If a customer refuses or is unable to provide the requested information, the account will not be created in our financial system and will therefore not be able to buy our products.

Guidelines concerning export control

We do not sell goods to customers if we suspect that the customer intends to distribute the goods to countries subject to export control.

When in doubt, we consult the Danish Business Authority (or a similar national authority) to make sure that our products may not be used as weapons or parts of weapons (dual use).

All transactions to high-risk countries and to entities unknown to us must be cleared with our Bank in order to secure compliance with current regulations.

Agreements with other contracting parties

The agreements entered into with our business partners (new agreements or upon revision of long-term agreements) must include provisions on:

- Actions or omissions contrary to the standards stated in this program constituting material breach of the agreement.
- The business partner being obliged to inform Egiss of incidents which may potentially constitute violation of the standards.

In the event of material breach, Egiss will terminate the business relationship with the relevant business partner.

Screening of external parties

The CFO/Compliance Officer must, on an annual basis, make a risk assessment of our business partners in order to assess whether these guidelines must be imposed in particular on one or more undertakings or whether such undertakings must be subjected to an inspection to the extent allowed by the agreements entered into.

Special risk areas in relevant divisions

The CFO/Compliance Officer will on an annual basis – or upon changes to current circumstances make a risk assessment of the trade with suppliers/distributors in specific countries or areas.

Introduction

Our promise

Egiss carries on business respecting the applicable laws and regulations of the countries in which we operate.

We wish to contribute to and promote good business practices, ethical responsibility, a healthy environment, and respect for human and labour rights.

7 questions to our employees

We seek to ensure that Egiss, our employees, suppliers, and all business partners comply and operate in accordance with the requirements in this Compliance Programme and all relevant national and international laws.

Should there still be any doubt, we encourage you to ask yourself the following questions:

- Is it legal?
- Is it in compliance with the programme?
- Is it ethical?
- Do I lead by example?
- Will it reflect positively on Egiss?
- Would I be comfortable to read about it in the news?
- Would my relatives and close friends approve of it?

If the answer is “no” to any of the above, avoid doing it – and if still in doubt, ask for help and guidance.

Introduction

Object of the programme

This compliance programme has several objects:

- The programme must urge and encourage our employees to act upon suspicion of unlawful acts or conduct which is inconsistent with our values.
- The programme describes methods for investigating any suspicion of unlawful acts or bad conduct.
- The programme introduces methods to prevent misconduct by our employees.
- The programme will minimise the risk of any employees violating the law, or any standards rightly imposed on us by society.
- The programme imposes a duty on our closest, external business partners to comply with rules and standards and enable us to terminate contracts concluded with external parties whose conduct does not comply with standards.
- We do our utmost to protect confidential information. We never disclose any trade secrets or other matters which may potentially harm a customer.
- We document all the services received or delivered.
- All services and payment must be posted correctly.
- No employee may provide incorrect documentation to be used for invoicing.
- If any third parties have delivered the services, we will check whether the services were properly delivered.
- We do not participate in money laundering activities and contribute to transactions that are not transparent.
- No amendments may be made to any final documents without this explicitly showing.

Decent and honest conduct

Employees in Egiss must act in a decent and honest manner. This translates into treating customers with integrity, such as follows:

If you are in doubt about the accuracy of any actions, please seek advice from Egiss' Compliance Officer or consult with your immediate superior.

Policies & guidelines for executives, managers and employees

We never offer bribes – not even small amounts and not even if this may be to the advantage of the company or settle a dispute.

We do our utmost to avoid conflicts of interests, and we make our business partners aware of any risks if relevant.

Whistleblower Policy

Operating in many countries and across many borders it is imperative to Egiss that we safeguard our integrity as a law-abiding company with high ethical standards. A whistleblower system is used to report incidents that we would not know of otherwise. It can be suspicion or knowledge of any illegal, unethical, or irregular conduct, and whistleblowers may report both on matters that have occurred or matters that will take place in Egiss.

We encourage all Egiss employees to use the whistleblower system if they suspect or have knowledge of any misconduct, irregularities or criminal behavior, and you can choose to raise a concern anonymously, or provide your name and contact details in confidentiality.

Each specific concern will be screened and handled by the Egiss' Whistleblower panel. The panel consists of a group of people who can relate objectively and factually to reports, and they determinate an eventual further process.

Personal data obtained when reporting a concern using the whistleblower system is handled according to Danish and EU-legislation. The whistleblower system is based on a 3rd party platform and all legal procedures and formalities regarding the system are protected according to the highest standards. Egiss is the data controller of the personal data processed in the whistleblower system, and all personal data collected through the system will be treated as confidential to the maximum extent possible.

All data is handled securely and in accordance with the European and Danish Data protection legislation (GDPR).

The Whistleblower Policy is available at Egiss Guide (internal) and on egiss.net.

On www.egiss.net you can find the link to the Whistleblower System if you want to raise a concern

Introduction

Egiss does not source minerals or metals directly. We do, however, source products from our suppliers that can contain small amounts of minerals and metals that fall under international regulations on conflict minerals. The present policy on conflict minerals shall govern all products being handled by Egiss, as any connection between the materials used in products sold by Egiss and armed violence or human rights abuses is unacceptable.

General Principles

The focus is on mineral precursors of the metals tantalum, tin, tungsten, and gold (3TG) which have been linked to conflict financing and human rights abuses in certain regions and specific countries such as Democratic Republic of the Congo and adjoining countries.

To ensure that the products sold by Egiss are made responsibly, we expect our suppliers to adopt industry-leading policies and monitoring practices that are broadening vigilance beyond conflict minerals to a wider range of minerals and geographies.

More specifically, Egiss expects our suppliers to have:

Conflict-Free Sourcing:

Minerals should be sourced exclusively from conflict-free regions, avoiding areas associated with armed conflict, corruption, and human rights violations.

Transparency and Traceability:

Suppliers to Egiss must, to the extent possible, support transparent supply chains, enabling the tracking of minerals' origins and their journey throughout the supply chain to ensure accountability.

Restrictions and due diligence:

We expect suppliers to comply with all environmental laws and material content restrictions and encourage to exercise due diligence on the source and custody of conflict minerals.

By adhering to these principles, and engaging through strategic suppliers and vendors, Egiss believes that the industry as a united collective can work towards sustainable sourcing of conflict minerals. This initiative also supports ethical business practices and the well-being of communities in mineral-rich regions.

Egiss is committed towards sourcing from vendors and suppliers using only conflict-free minerals, and to the extent possible only source from smelters that have been audited and verified by RMAP or equivalent programs.

We acknowledge our obligation to think and act carefully every time we receive, collect, handle and store data to make sure that data is used for a right and lawful purpose with respect for the individual, and we work actively to address data ethics issues in our business processes.

This policy sets the framework for Egiss' management of data from an ethical perspective describing our ethics principles and the overall ways on how we administrate data.

Policy

In Egiss we want to be a trusted data partner, and we pursue that objective of being an honest, reliable and accountable full circle IT-hardware and logistics company.

We handle data with care for data security and privacy but also by complying to the Egiss values of being customer centric, innovative, collaborative and accountable with a smile.

We expect our business partners to do the same.

We deliver reliability, efficiency and security

Egiss provides companies the highest degree of reliability when providing their employees and offices around the world with IT hardware and tech devices.

We ensure that Price, Quality and Delivery are as expected in every Service and Solution provided by Egiss.

In a similar way Egiss handles the data needed to provide the services securely and efficiently with respect for privacy and in a way that customers, partners and employees can trust.

Principles

Data trading

We do not sell or share data with 3rd parties unless we have a specific agreement with the data owner to do so. Egiss may share generic and necessary data with suppliers and/or service providers in connection with the general operation of our business.

Egiss may also disclose data to a public authority in situations where we are specifically bound to disclose the data in accordance with the laws and notification obligations to which we are subject.

We receive technical data from third parties. We have policies in place to safeguard both business data and personal data and prevent the disclosure of information that can be attributed to the individual persons.

Transparency

We ensure that our customers, users, business partners and employees know what kind of data we collect, how we store them and how we use the data in e.g. recruitment. We comply with the rights of the individual data owner, granted under the General Data Protection Regulation (EU GDPR). The specifics on how we handle data can be read in our Data Privacy Policy.

Data processing in Egiss

Egiss handles some data as data controller. As data controller we mainly process personal data regarding our employees and job-applicants.

Rarely Egiss operates as data processor of sensitive personal identifiable information. In these exceptions Egiss agrees with the data owners to ensure the needed confidentiality.

We only store data in order to deliver our services to our customers and we always consider the type of data we need to handle, and for how long we need to store the data.

Principles

Training and awareness

Egiss' employees must always be aware about data ethics, data security and proper handling of personal data. Egiss has integrated this policy in our awareness- and training program concerning GDPR and data compliance, which all employees must attend.

Monitoring and continued development

Our Data Ethics initiatives are anchored with our management team and supported by our Egiss Academy ensuring Egiss' continued efforts within data ethics and data protection.

Egiss has identified a set of ESG metrics on governance related to data security and data ethics that we monitor, and we report on our performance in our annual ESG Report.

Egiss will periodically review and revise the principles to reflect evolving technologies, the regulatory landscape, stakeholder expectations, and understanding of the risks and benefits to individuals and society of data use.

The supplier shall not accept or provide any gifts or favours to or from government officials or commercial parties for or on behalf of Egiss.

The Egiss Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption Policy can be found here.

We expect our suppliers to adhere to the standards and UN Principles regarding Human and Labour Rights, and all ILO Conventions and Recommendations.

Egiss' suppliers are required to respect all applicable laws, regulations and international standards related to labour practices and protection of human rights.

This includes compliance with child labour laws, anti-discrimination practices, health and safety standards, working conditions, working hours, compensation, right to association and freely chosen employment.

We expect suppliers to provide a safe and healthy working environment for employees and others on their sites.

Suppliers must also ensure the management of hazards and risks associated with their operations, including the provision of adequate protective equipment.

They must ensure continuous training of their employees about workplace safety practices and support workers' engagement, including empowering workers to raise any unsafe practice or condition without fear of reprisal.

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

Suppliers shall commit to a workplace free from discrimination, harassment and abuse. The supplier must treat its employees with fairness, dignity and respect.

Egiss requires that its suppliers ensure equal opportunity and treatment of their employees and refrain from discrimination in any form.

Egiss encourages suppliers to promote inclusion and diversity among their workforces.

Labour and human rights

Employment conditions

Suppliers shall ensure appropriate remuneration and guarantee the national minimum wage under applicable legislation.

Suppliers shall adhere to the maximum legal working hours in the respective country of employment.

Suppliers shall recognise employees' freedom of association and neither favour nor discriminate against members of workers' organisations or unions.

Child or forced labour

Customers, suppliers, and business partners must guarantee that they do not engage in child or forced labour as part of their production and that production is otherwise in accordance with legislation in the country in which the supplier is domiciled and with ILO's conventions no. 182 and no. 138 on child labour.

Conflict minerals

Egiss is committed to sourcing from vendors and suppliers using only conflict-free minerals and, to the extent possible, only sourcing from smelters that have been audited and verified by RMAP or equivalent programs. Suppliers are to guarantee that they only use conflict-free minerals and comply with all international and national environmental laws and material content restrictions related to conflict minerals.

The Egiss Conflict Mineral Policy can be found here.

Environmental responsibility

Egiss expects its suppliers to ensure adherence to environmental responsibility via ISO 14001 or corresponding practices.

The supplier must have an environmental policy, covering environmental protection and means to combat climate change.

Suppliers shall strive to develop and implement environmental procedures that include measurement and monitoring in order to identify environmental risks and impacts and to ensure pollution prevention measures are in place.

The supplier must be committed to take action in the following areas:

- Suppliers are expected to proactively and continuously reduce the greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions connected to the products, services, and activities performed;
- They must strive to reduce waste, energy, and emissions to air, ground, and water;
- The handling, storage, and disposal of hazardous materials, such as chemicals and/or waste, must be done in an environmentally safe manner;
- Suppliers shall contribute to the recycling and reuse of materials and products and implement environmentally friendly technologies where possible;

- Suppliers shall have systems in place to prevent and mitigate accidental spills and releases to the environment;
- Suppliers shall have systems in place to prevent and mitigate accidental spills and releases to the environment.

WEEE

Egiss expect our suppliers and business partners to adhere to the EU Directive “Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment” (2012/19/EU or later).

Egiss does not manufacture any electrical equipment, and as such, Egiss does not produce waste electrical and electronic equipment. Even so, Egiss supports all legislation regarding sustainable production, consumption, and disposal of waste electrical and electronic equipment to promote resource efficiency and the reuse/recycling of the rare minerals used in the manufacture of IT hardware.

The Egiss Policy on Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment can be found here.

Raising concerns

Egiss suppliers who believe that an Egiss employee, or anyone acting on behalf of Egiss, is acting unethically, improperly, or illegally should report their concerns swiftly on egiss.net.

Whistleblower

In addition, Egiss expects its suppliers to implement safe internal reporting channels so that any concerns such as legal or ethical issues, can be brought up and investigated in a diligent manner while providing required whistle-blower protection.

Suppliers shall also take action to prevent, detect, and correct any retaliatory practices.

Introduction

Purpose

Operating in many countries and across many borders it is imperative to Egiss that we safeguard our integrity as a law-abiding company with high ethical standards. Egiss' Whistleblower Policy outlines how to raise concerns about all matters regarding our business conduct and organisation in a confidential and secure way using our whistleblower system.

The objective of the system is to bring light to matters that we would not know of otherwise. It can be suspicion or knowledge of any illegal, unethical, or irregular conduct, and whistleblowers may report both on matters that have occurred or matters that will take place in Egiss Group.

A concern can be raised anonymously, or you can decide to provide your name and contact details in confidentiality. In the following you can read more about the policy including guidelines on how to use the whistleblower system and how personal data will be protected.

Policy

At Egiss we want to promote trust in all the manners our business and organisation is run. This policy is, in addition to following Danish and EU-legislation, also a way to ensure that concerns about Egiss' Code of Conduct and serious breach of policies can be raised in a secure manner and handled without any personal consequences for the whistleblower.

How to raise a concern

All Egiss employees, customers, suppliers, and other business partners and associates can and are encouraged to use the whistleblower system. At the bottom of this policy, you will find a link to the whistleblower system. The link is also accessible at www.egiss.net. The system will inform and guide the whistleblower on how to report a concern and on the principles guiding the assessment of the concern. This link also allows you to follow up on status, development or add further information to your existing report.

Concerns that can be raised

You can only use the whistleblower system to raise serious concerns within the scope of the current regulation regarding protection of whistleblowers. Dissatisfaction with your employment such as salary, management style and other contractual terms and conditions are not to be reported to the whistleblower system. Instead, such matters should be addressed through the usual channels for example to your line manager or People & Culture.

Examples of matters that are within the scope of the system are:

- Suspicion or knowledge of any illegal, unethical, or irregular conduct, including matters regarding bribery and corruption, fraud and crime;
- Gross personal data security violation;
- Serious environmental damage;
- Sexual harassment, or other gross harassment;
- Gross or repeated breaches of law.

These are just examples, so we recommend you raise a concern, should you be in doubt. Each concern will be assessed to check whether it is within the scope of current regulation regarding protection of whistleblowers.

Concerns must be raised in good faith. It should not be used to deliberately share information you know is wrong, and please note that in such a case you will not be protected by the whistleblower system.

How concerns are handled

Each specific concern will be screened and handled by the Egiss whistleblower panel. The panel consists of a group of people who can relate objectively and factually to reports, and they determinate an eventual further process. Names of panel members are shown when you raise a case on the portal, and you have the option of excluding one or more of the panel members should you have concerns regarding impartiality.

You will receive a confirmation of the receipt of the concern as soon as possible and no later than 7 days after having submitted it.

If the case is found to be within the scope of the system, it will be further investigated. Firstly, by one or more members of the panel. The panel will then inform Group Management or members of the Board of Directors with suggestions for further actions. Should the concern be regarding one or more members of either Group Management or the Board of Directors, the specific person will not be informed nor be part of the group handling the case.

Please note that:

- If there is a violation of criminal law, it will be reported to the proper authorities.
- If the case concern serious malpractice by employees at Egiss, it may lead to negative employment law reactions, including disciplinary sanctions, such as warning or dismissal.

As a whistleblower you will receive feedback to the extent possible on the status of the concern within 3 months.

Policy

Anonymity and protection of the whistleblower

A whistleblower reporting a concern within the scope of the whistleblower system is by law protected and will not face retaliation of any kind because of the concern raised.

The Egiss whistleblower panel works under strict pledge of secrecy. And if you decide to give any personal information, they are prohibited to share that with anyone unless you explicitly consent to having it disclosed. Your identity can, however, in some cases, be disclosed to public authorities, such as the police or public prosecutor, if deemed necessary to respond to reported matters, or for the purpose of ensuring the right to defend affected people.

If you decide to raise the concern anonymously, neither Egiss nor a third party will process your personal information. You must, however, be aware that if you provide data that makes you identifiable or use Egiss owned IT systems or equipment that will disclose your identity, Egiss will be entitled to process the given information even if you have raised the concern anonymously.

You have the option to decide to make yourself available for any further investigation by setting up a secure and anonymous mailbox, that allows Egiss to contact you anonymously. We recommend that you set up such a mailbox, as in some cases further information could be needed for the investigation.

Egiss whistleblower system & protection of personal data

General principles

Personal data obtained when reporting a concern using the whistleblower system is handled according to Danish and EU-legislation. The whistleblower system is based on a 3rd party platform and all legal procedures and formalities regarding the system are protected according to the highest standards. Egiss is the data controller of the personal data processed in the whistleblower system, and all personal data collected through the system will be treated as confidential to the maximum extent possible.

All data is handled securely and in accordance with the European and Danish data protection legislation (GDPR).

Rights

If the concern raised affects one or several named persons, the person(s) in question will generally be notified about:

- The subject-matter of the concern raised and the outcome of the concern raised, including whether the concern is rejected as unfounded or made subject to further investigation.
- The contemplated period when the personal data will be kept or alternatively the criteria used to determine such period of time.

- How the relevant person may exercise his/her right of objection and right of correction to receive data about and respond to the concern raised.

The notification will be made as quickly as possible and no later than 14 days after the above data has been obtained.

As a data subject (whistleblower, affected person or third party mentioned in the report), you have several rights, unless the report is assessed not to fall within Egiss' whistleblower system or is exempted from the data protection legislation.

As the data subject you have a right to object to the processing of data and to request that data be corrected, restricted or erased in compliance with the data protection legislation. The rights can be exercised by contacting Hanne Bak, Group CHRO.

Egiss whistleblower system & protection of personal data

Storing and erasing personal data

All data is erased immediately if a concern raised is not covered by the whistleblower system.

Storage of personal data is not extended beyond what is necessary to ensure requirements pursuant to the Whistleblower Act, including in particular the whistleblower's and affected persons' possible need for preservation of evidence as well as Egiss' duty to follow up on reports received, including by linking such reports to previously received reports.

A concrete assessment will be made on an ongoing basis of how long continued storage of previously received reports is necessary. The specific assessment will include whether it is likely that persons entitled to protection under the Whistleblower Act may need to document the report in question. It will also argue in favor of continued storage if there is reason to believe that the report could be followed by subsequent reports on the same matter. Continued storage may also be necessary to fulfil a legal obligation under another legislation.

If a disciplinary action is taken against a reported employee, or if there are other reasons why it is factual and necessary to continue storing information, the information may be stored on the employee's personnel file. In this case, the information will be deleted no later than 5 years after the employee's resignation, unless in the specific case it is still factual and necessary to store the information, e.g., because of a pending court case.

Egiss whistleblower system & protection of personal data

Making available and disclosing personal data

Personal data related to a reported concern will be made available to the whistleblower panel. Being the data processor the panel is responsible for the initial screening of the received concern.

Egiss does not generally disclose personal data collected through the whistleblower system to third parties. However, the following types of disclosure could take place on a case-by-case basis:

- Disclosure to an external advisor, for example an attorney or auditor for the purpose of a detailed investigation of the concern raised;
- Transfer to relevant authorities, including the police and the prosecution service, in contemplation of any legal proceedings;
- Other disclosure required by law.

Personal data collected and stored in the whistleblower system will not be transferred to a third country outside the EU/EEA.

Compliant

If involved in a whistleblower case you have the right to complain to the Danish Data Protection Agency if you are dissatisfied with the way Egiss is handling personal data. The Danish Data Protection Agency's contact information can be found on their website <https://www.datatilsynet.dk/english>

External whistleblower scheme

If you do not feel comfortable using Egiss' whistleblower system, or for other reasons would rather use an external whistleblower scheme, you have the opportunity to use the Danish Data Protection Agency's external whistleblower scheme, where it is possible to make written and oral reports. You can find more information here at the National Whistleblower Scheme: <https://whistleblower.dk/english>
